

LOOMIS SAYLES RENAMES FUND AS THE LOOMIS SAYLES GLOBAL ALLOCATION FUND

- Loomis Sayles Global Equity and Income Fund has been renamed to reflect the Fund's global allocation style

BOSTON (DECEMBER 1, 2017) – Loomis, Sayles & Company, an affiliate of Natixis Investment Managers, announced that the Loomis Sayles Global Equity and Income Fund (LSWWX) has been renamed the Loomis Sayles Global Allocation Fund, effective today.

There are no changes to the team, investment process or philosophy. The new name simply better represents the Fund's global allocation style and removes a potential source of confusion regarding the definition of "income."

"We believe the Fund's bottom-up asset allocation process, concentrated global equity positioning and high-conviction, global fixed income allocation truly differentiates it from most other global allocation offerings," said Jae Park, chief investment officer. "We feel this name change better reflects the Fund's strategy and the role it can play in a diversified portfolio."

The Fund has the flexibility to capitalize on global equity and fixed income market opportunities and may be suitable for investors seeking enhanced return potential and global diversification, with the ability to take on risks of global investing.

The Fund, which has $1.8B in assets under management¹, is managed by Eileen Riley, Lee Rosenbaum, Dan Fuss and David Rolley. The Fund is within Loomis Sayles' range of multi-asset investing products, which also includes the Loomis Sayles Multi-Asset Income Fund, Strategic Alpha Fund and a variety of institutional offerings.
